After working with several law firms from small to large, and being a founding member of McClelland Jones, LLP, Aaron Lyons founded Lyons Law Group.

With 25 years of experience in complex federal and state litigation and appellate experience on a local and national basis, including within regulatory, administrative and arbitration tribunals, Aaron has a diverse range of practical areas. He applies his extensive litigation, risk and conflict management experience in business creation, negotiating commercial and professional contracts and transactions, as well as assessing and developing best practices.

Aaron represents clients nationally, regionally, state-wide and locally, before federal and state courts, and before administrative, regulatory and arbitration tribunals. Aaron is routinely engaged as outside general counsel to meet all of a business client's specific legal needs, including the implementation of strategies geared toward risk and litigation management, while meeting the extremely challenging budgetary goals that are dictated by today's changing marketplace.

Aaron received his undergraduate degree from Purdue University, he was on the Varsity Men's Crew Team. He went on to receive his Juris Doctorate from Duquesne University School of Law, located in Pennsylvania. At Duquesne University, he served on the law review and was a Legal Research and Writing teaching assistant.

Aaron also holds a black belt in Isshinryu karate, and is a certified firearms and personal security instructor with close to 1000 hours of specialized training.
