

Commercial Litigation

We are here to fight for your business so you can focus on continued success. Lyons Law Group's team of commercial litigators offers a proven track record of success for our clients.

Our Commercial Litigation Practice Group provides comprehensive legal counsel for a variety of business-related lawsuits. This includes litigation related to such areas as breach of contract, class action suits, shareholder disputes, and intellectual property cases. Our team will carefully examine documents and conduct extensive interviews to ensure we prepare the best legal strategy on your behalf.

Our team of lawyers and support staff is well-versed in all aspects of business-to-business legal proceedings, and we tailor our approach to your unique situation to reach a solution. Because commercial litigation can be lengthy and often cost-intensive, we will work with you on mapping out a comprehensive legal strategy that properly addresses these expenses and sets realistic goals and an achievable timeline. The litigators at Lyons Law Group represent businesses at the local, state, or federal level. We resolve conflicts among owners, management, and employees.

At times, disagreements can arise about what legal documents mean or precisely how they are meant to be followed by all parties to the agreement. Our attorneys ensure that parties to a contract are held accountable, and we pursue vigorous litigation to enforce agreements and contracts.

Whether your legal matter involves a contract dispute, business dissolution, shareholder dispute, intellectual property, employment lawsuit, construction defect, insurance dispute, or product liability claim, we work tirelessly to champion your company's financial interests and rights.

Contact us to help with your commercial litigation needs so you can focus on your business growth.